Epygi and Para Systems Form Technology Alliance

Focus will be on the importance of power protection for small to medium-sized business telephone users

Dallas, TX - November 20, 2008 - Epygi Technologies Ltd., a leading provider of small to medium business telephone systems, and Para Systems, manufacturer of the Minuteman brand of power protection solutions, today announced a technology marketing partnership. Para Systems is the latest member of Epygi's Partner Program, which is aimed at providing more comprehensive small to medium-sized business solutions, faster product installations and the peace of mind that their multi-vendor solutions are truly unified. Epygi's partnership areas include IP phones, Call Recording, VoIP network assessment products, Paging Solutions and now Power Protection.

"We are pleased to be working with Para Systems on insuring that our telephone system users have knowledge of and access to the Minuteman brand of high quality power protection solutions," stated Mario Cuello, CEO of Epygi Technologies. "Para Systems has been selling Minuteman uninterruptible power supplies into the telephone market for more than 25 years, and we recognize how important it is that our customers protect their phone system investment."

Para Systems has developed a customized version of their well-known on-line power protection selection tool for Epygi that will assist distributors, resellers and end-users in selecting the right Minuteman power protection product that best fits Epygi's line of telephone products. The selection tool will be hosted on Epygi's website (www.epygi.com).

"Epygi offers a full line of outstanding telephone systems, and we are excited about becoming the newest member of their Partner Program," said Rod Pullen, president of Para Systems. "We look forward to further developing this solution-based relationship that we think will ultimately benefit small to medium-sized businesses by offering a cohesive and complimentary set of high-performance product offerings."

The two companies will participate in joint marketing and educational activities centered around cross-pollination of their respective customer bases, along with highlighting both companies' strengths within the small to medium-sized business sector.
